CHEAP COLONY HOUSE PLANS

Idea Taken From Various Experimental Station Bulletins for Most Economical Structure.

Below is given the plan of a colony house that is adapted from plans shown by the various experimental station bulletins.

This plan shows what is probably the most economical house that can possibly be built and is useful to the average farmer for several reasons. The house is eight feet square and the plan shows one end of it. For the ground covered and the space available, this plan requires less lumber than any good colony house that we have ever seen.

The front, rear, roof and sides are all built of tongue and groove stuff six inches wide, and the entire house is covered with a good grade of heavy roofing paper, thus making it as warm a place as is necessary in the severest of weather. It is built on two-inch by three-inch runners so that it may be moved around the farm from place to place as desired.

It will accommodate from 25 to 50 growing pullets, depending on their size, and may be used to hold about 15 layers in the winter. It may also be used to house about the same number in the spring, when it is desired to group the best birds of the entire flock so that they may be used as breeders. In bad weather two of these houses could be placed together being connected by an alley, one being used as a scratching pen and the other as a roosting room.

AFRICAN, OR 'STUFFED GOOSE'

Fowls Grow Heaviest in Shortest Space of Time of Any Varieties—Bring Highest Price.

(By R. G. DAWSON.)

A cross between the Brown China goose and the common goose of India was the original progenitor of the African goose. Why they are called African is not clearly understood, and the standard adopted this name in 1879.

They will grow the heaviest in the shortest space of time of any of the varieties, and are being raised extensively around Watertown, Wis., consequently this locality has become famous for raising what is called the "Stuffed Goose."

This goose, when "stuffed" and marketed, will bring the very highest price the market commands, and the demand is not half supplied.

African geese are used almost exclusively for breeding, as they are the most hardy and vigorous, and have great size. These African geese are crossed on common or grade geese, and this cross is the most profitable to produce the "stuffed goose."

These will grow the largest of all the varieties, either pure-bred or crossed, and one specimen, cross-bred, was known to the writer as weighing 38 pounds, and was sold for 38 cents a pound, bringing the sum of $14.44.

The market price is established and remains practically the same each year. The average weight per goose of a farmer's consignment will fix the price he will get.

Fowls in good health always have a bright red comb.

Success in turkey raising depends much upon keeping every thing clean and dry.

Poultry like rye and rape for green food far better than wheat. Sow some now for their winter feed.

Nothing stunts the growth of chickens or turkeys like huddling close together in badly ventilated coops.

With the run of the orchard, a house eight by ten feet in size will shelter 35 hens and can be built for $15 to $25.

Geese enjoy low, wet pastures. They do not thrive in confined quarters. Grass and water, is their principal diet.

It is claimed that in laying an egg, the pullet parts with about 1-60 part, by weight, of the total solid nutriment of its own body.

A hopper of dry bran placed where the fowls can get at it at all times during the winter will do a great deal to balance the ration.

Chicken fever is the annual disease that can be cured only by free indulgence on the part of the one who is suffering from the attack.

After selling off all the old roosters look over the old hens and sell off all that are passing two years unless they are extra good layers.

A Winter Cough. A stubborn, annoying, depressing cough hangs on, racks the body, weakens the lungs, and often leads to serious results. The first dose of Dr. King's New Discovery gives relief. Henry D. Sanders, of Cavendish, Vt., was threatened with consumption after having pneumonia. He writes: "Dr. King's New Discovery ought to be in every family; it is certainly the best of all medicines for coughs, colds or lung troubles." Good for children's coughs. Money back if not satisfied. Price 50 cents and $1.00. At all druggists. H. E. Bucklen & Co., Philadelphia or St. Louis.

An Accomplished Cow.

According to this advertisement in a Connecticut country paper, there is a cow in New England which is possessed of rare accomplishments:

"Wanted—A steady and respectable young man to look after a garden and care for a cow who has a good voice and is accustomed to sing in the choir."

Historic House to be Preserved.

Sentiment, backed by wealthy members of the Disciples of Christ, or Christian Church, has won the fight to preserve the little red brick structure in Bethany, Va., in which Alexander Campbell, founder of the church, first preached his new doctrine. When efforts were made to raze the old building to make way for a modern structure, objection was made throughout the denomination. Wealthy communicants, headed by Dr. R. A. Long, of Kansas City, have promised to take care of the old house, and it will be used as a historical shrine.

Change in County Unit Law.

The county unit plank of the Democratic platform took a step toward more effectual existence Tuesday when Senator W. A. Frost, of Graves county, reported favorably the bill changing the method of calling a local option election in a county. The measure provides that instead of 25 per cent. of the voters of each precinct being necessary to call an election, 25 per cent. of the voters of the county as a whole are required. The Frost measure is scheduled to pass both Houses without delay in the opinion of those interested.

The Sooner The Better.

Without a dissenting vote the Kentucky Senate passed the Arnett bill as amended by the committee, fixing a drastic punishment for the carrying of concealed deadly weapons.

Under the provisions of the measure a first conviction carries with it disfranchisement for two years, besides a fine of from $10 to $100 and a jail sentence of ten to forty days. The penalty upon a second conviction is confinement in the penitentiary of from one to five years. The amendment by the committee provides a fine of from $10 to $50 for the circuit clerk or sheriff who fails or refuses to issue a capias or execute the judgment.

We hope to see this bill not only pass the House, but that no Representative will feel called upon to vote against it. The "pistol toting" habit in Kentucky should be stopped, and the Arnett measure appears drastic enough to put a stop to the cowardly practice. Hundreds of murders in this State would never have occurred had a law similar to the one just passed by the Senate been on the statute books. The sooner it becomes the law of the State the better it will be for the good name of Kentucky.—Bowling Green Times Journal.

Make "Bootlegging" a Felony.

The Kentucky Senate did well Friday in passing a bill making the second conviction for pistol "toting" a felony and punishable by a sentence of from one to five years in the penitentiary. The day previous the representative from Bell county introduced in the House a bill making pistol "toting" and "bootlegging" a felony, and we trust that the Legislature, having acted favorably upon one of these measures, will also pass the other. The present statute against "bootlegging" does not fit the crime. Usually the penalty is imposed and the shameless law violator is given a $60 fine and sent to jail for ten days. His business is profitable, and he is caught upon such a very small per cent of sales that it ordinarily is an easy matter for him to pay the fine, and his continuous and brazen violation of the law have robbed him of self-respect to such an extent that he does not feel a tinge of shame in going to jail. To many, it means free board for ten days, the only disturbing feature being that his illicit traffic cannot be carried on during the confinement. The present statutory punishment for "bootlegging" is not severe enough to have a deterrent effect. When the sentence is completed and the fine is paid the mongrels go back to their dirty work, and perhaps operate for 6 months without being caught again.

Every self-respecting citizen, whether he is in favor of prohibition or the open saloon, wants the majesty of the law to be supreme, and the only way to stamp out "bootlegging" is to make it a penitentiary offense upon the second or third conviction.—Elizabethtown News.

Goebel Monument To Be Unveiled March 4.

The statue of Governor Wm. Goebel, assassinated 14 years ago while the Legislature was in session, will be unveiled March 4, in Frankfort. This tribute of Kentucky was purchased with an appropriation of $20,000. It stands in front of the Capitol, and was placed there by the Capitol Commission to be an inspiration to State officials and legislators to enact finally the laws for which Governor Goebel fought and was killed. There will be no memorial exercises this year. The legislature will adjourn for that day and participate in the proceedings. The program has not been arranged.

Says Hogs Would Be Dudes If Men Would Let Them.

In the current issue of Form and Fire-side, the national farm paper, published at Springfield, Ohio, Judson Welliver, Washington correspondent of that publication, writes an interesting article about hog cholera. Following is an extract:

"Hog cholera exists all over the world, wherever there are hogs to have it. It was reported in this country in Ohio about eighty years ago. Once started in a herd its average record is about seventy-five per cent of fatalities.

"Hogs kept in filthy lots, compelled to sleep in damp places, using filthy troughs, drinking bad water, are most liable to the disease; if the germ gets to them their vitality is so low that they fall easy victims. For the hog he it known, is essentially a clean brute. He would be a dude of animal creation if man hadn't demoralized him by imagining that he liked filth and by giving him too much of it.

"The germ of cholera is very easily transported; anything that carries dirt from an infected lot may start cholera in another herd. Live stock cars transport it; stock shows are liable to it; buzzards, that used to be regarded as scavenging servants of humanity, are now considered as dangerous disseminators of the disease."

Farm animals in the United States, January 1, were valued at $5,891,229,000, according to a report of the Department of Agriculture. This was an increase of $389,446,000, or 7.1 per cent over the value of animals on farms and ranges January 1 last year.

Mules numbered 4,449,000, an increase of 63,000; were valued at $123,854,000, a decrease of 46 cents, and had a total value of $551,017,000.

Milch cows numbered 20,737,000, an increase of 240,000; were valued at $53,944,000, an increase of $8,924,000, and had a total value of $1,118,487,000.

Bully For Lake.

(Sanford, Fla., Herald.)

Hon. Clarence E. Woods, editor of the Eustis Lake Region and the Chesterfield of the Florida Press Association, wired the following to the Herald last Tuesday night:

"Lake county gave two hundred majority for half-million dollar bond issue for good roads."

Clarence wired this joyful intelligence to the Herald because he knew that we were waiting the result as anxiously as were the public spirited people of Lake county. He wanted us to know the result, because the bond issue in Lake means that Lake county and Seminole county will now join hands and complete a chain of good roads connecting the counties into an unbroken stretch of hard roads. It means that Seminole county, Orange county and Lake county have demonstrated that their citizens are alive to the many advantages accruing from good roads and are among the few counties in Florida that have bonded for hard roads. Seminole and Orange counties have decided to make brick roads, and Lake county may try out the macadam or oiled roads; but they will eventually turn to brick, as this material has gradually taken the place of all other materials, even in the countries where other materials close at hand. These three counties are now bonded together by chains of friendship—chains of good roads feelings—chains of that spirit which pervades the bosoms of the people who are doing things and are happy and contented in that thought.

Congratulations to Editor Clarence E. Woods and the Eustis Lake Region, John Bell, of the Travlers Herald, and Bart Jorley, of the Leesburg Commercial, for all of them worked for the bond issue in their county. Congratulations to the people of Lake county, for they have shown the world their better colors. They are old friends of the Herald editor, for Lake county was his first stop when he cast his lot with Florida and her people, and we have a tender feeling for Eustis and all the good people of Lake county, one of the most beautiful spots in this grand State of ours.

Tobacco Pools Are Probably Illegal.

In discussing the "definition of monopoly" bill in the anti-trust program before the House Judiciary Committee Wednesday, Seth Low, former mayor of New York, declared that Kentucky tobacco pools were made illegal under the measure.

Representative R. Y. Thomas, Jr., of Kentucky, a member of the committee, was inclined to agree with Mr. Low. It is expected that Representative J. C. Cantrell will at once take up the matter with the Kentucky delegation with a view to changing the phraseology of the bill. Mr. Low had said that farmers' organization, although intrastate, whose products are later distributed among the States, are made illegal under the monopoly definition bill.

Quite True.

A satirical writer once said: "When children meet in the dining-room hungry, they want dinner, not a lecture on albuminoids." It is equally true that people meet in churches hungry for the truth and thirsting for God, they want the gospel, not a discussion on science or the higher criticism. There is no nourishment in these subjects for hungering, famishing souls. Their place is in the lecture hall where scholars meet, not in the pulpit, to which the common people look for the words of life from lips inspired by the Holy Spirit and from hearts that glow with the love of Christ and that feel the gospel message proclaimed.
